Rear Adm. Roger Nolan, Commander, Naval Reserve Readiness Command, Northeast, led official welcome home ceremonies at Naval Station Newport's Building W-36 on Sept. 4 for almost 100 returning naval reservists.

After approximately 180 days deployed overseas to Souda Bay, Crete, Greece, Mobile Inshore Undersea Warfare Unit 202 (MIUWU-202) and Inshore Boat Unit 21 (IBU-21) returned home Aug. 30 at T.F. Green State Airport in Warwick on Aug. 30 to the embrace of friends and family members. They were given 96 hours liberty.

While in Souda Bay, MIUWU-202 and IBU-21 played an important role in the security of naval vessels and safety of U.S. Sailors coming in and out of the Marathi Naval Pier Complex.

"We provided seagoing force and anti-terrorism protection to prevent any more USS Cole (DDG 67) type incidents," said Senior Chief Boatswain's Mate Kevin O'Brien.

MIUWU-202 stood watch from shore with electronic surveillance equipment, while IBU-21 patrolled the bay 24 hours a day. They were the eyes and ears of the Navy so the ships docked at the pier could assume some measure of security.

Activated Nov. 19 in response to the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, most of these reservists will be going back to their civilian lives and jobs around Sept. 30.

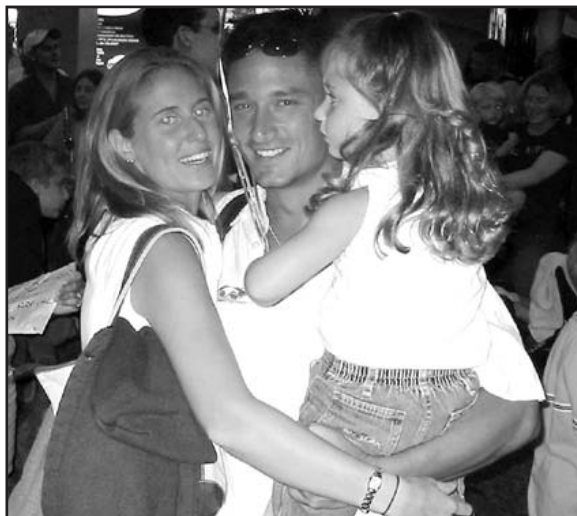

Adm. Nolan thanked the reservists for their strength, endurance, commitment and faith. He reminded the group that 1.3 million reserve components make up half of the armed forces, and with their support for Operation Enduring Freedom the nation has been able to carry on as usual.

Afterward, he personally shook every reservist's hand.

MIUWU-202 and IBU-21 will relocate to Groton, Conn, where they will demobilize.

Facilities managers from region receive energy saving ideas

By RICHARD ALEXANDER

Navalog editor

About 35 naval activities energy management personnel from New England, the mid-Atlantic states and other parts of the country attended a regional session of the CECOS Facilities Energy Management course at Perry Hall, Naval Station Newport, this week.

CECOS stands for Civil Engineer Corps Officers School of Port Hueneme, Calif.

The five-day course was designed to provide facilities managers with fundamental energy management guidance, in a non-technical approach, that they can take back to their shore establishments. Capt. Ruth A. Cooper, Commanding Officer, Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport, welcomed the students last Monday.

For the energy managers it was a first step toward meeting the goals of the 1992 Energy Policy Act. Through a Presidential Executive Order, all federal agencies must reduce energy conservation by 30 percent by 2005, and 35 percent by 2010.

Gil Siqueido, director of the CECOS energy course, said speakers represented the Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC), the Chief of Naval Operations (CNO) office, and others. Topics included water conservation, weather forecasting, performance contracting and other money-saving tips."

Traffic gate construction to begin at Chases Lane

MIDDLETOWN — Construction will begin today on Read Street at Chases Lane for the installation of a gate to restrict commuter traffic through Anchorage and Coddington Cove Navy Family Housing, the Resident Officer in Charge of Construction has announced.

Traffic is currently curtailed weekdays from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. The area will be roped off with construction fencing this weekend. Forms will be poured for stone pillar footings, and swinging wrought iron style gates will be attached to the pillars.

Traffic restrictions began Aug. 7, after Navy housing residents complained about increasing traffic problems with commuters taking a shortcut through their neighborhoods to Coddington Highway.

The construction should be completed no later than Nov. 25.

Mrs. Nancy Taylor clutched a bouquet of flowers as she gazed at the memorial erected in memory of 10 Naval War College (NWC) students and alumni who died in the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on the Pentagon.

One of the 10 was her husband, Army Maj. Kip Taylor.

"I think it's hardest for the families who have to go on without their loved ones," she said. "Some children are too young, and won't remember who their fathers were."

Maj. Taylor graduated from the College of Naval Command and Staff in 1999 and was a member of the Army Adjutant General Corps. On Sept. 11 he was serving as Military Assistant to the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, Lt. Gen. Timothy Maude. The Taylors have a 2½-year-old son, Dean.

Mrs. Taylor was among several families members invited to the unveiling of the NWC Patriots Memorial outside McCarty Little Hall last Monday. The memorial includes a

The new series, Survivor: Thailand, will debut on CBS Thursday, Sept. 19, at 8 p.m. It was filmed on the island of Koh Tarutao.

Glover, 47, and her husband, Jim, have three children — Katherine, 18; Matthew, 28; a captain in the Marine Corps, and a stepdaughter, Erin, 30.

Born in Honolulu, Glover is the daughter of a 30-year career Marine. She has been a lifeguard, caterer and waitress.

Although bound to secrecy by contest rules, Glover is self-described on the CBS website as "assertive, competitive and quick-witted."

First prize again is $1 million.

3 SWOS instructors chosen for PCO, command at sea

YNC (Sel.) G. DOHERTY
SWOS Public Affairs Officer

Three Surface Warfare Officers School Command (SWOSCOLCOM) instructors, Cmdr. Matthew Beaver, Cmdr. Dale Fuller and Cmdr. Roy Kitchener, have recently been enrolled into the Prospective Commanding Officers (PCO) Course.

The course provides in-depth and structured command at sea training to officers, whose rank runs from lieutenant to captain, chosen to command a naval vessel.

The instructors give briefs in the areas of basic seamanship, navigation, combat systems training, fire fighting, bridge resource management, family and personnel issues that may arise as commanding officer, and a variety of mentorship and guest speaker forums.

During the final week of the course, they ship out on a cruise to allow the PCOs to be part of a ship on a command level without the pressure associated with command.

"I am grateful and thrilled to have been chosen for command," said Cmdr. Beaver, PCO of the frigate USS Underwood. "I am happy with the Navy and gotten everything back that I have put into it."

Beaver, a native of Hagerstown, Md., graduated from Florida Institute of Technology in 1984 with a Bachelor of Science degree in ocean engineering.

He was commissioned through Officer Candidate School in March 1985. Prior to entering the PCO course he was an instructor in the Command Training Department at SWOS.

Cmdr. Dale Fuller is PCO for the landing ship dock USS Pearl Harbor.

He said of his selection, "I was fortunate enough to have a portfolio that was diverse. I have served aboard seven afloat commands in my 13 year naval career."

Fuller graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1985 with a degree in foreign affairs and earned his commission through Officer Candidate School in Newport.

Fuller has recently served as Director, Combat Systems Department Head Training at SWOS before being assigned to the PCO course.

Cmdr. Roy Kitchener, PCO of destroyer USS John Paul Jones said PCO "...became my goal at the Department Head level."

Cmdr. Kitchener graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in political science in 1984 and was commissioned through Officer Candidate School in March 1985. He, too, joined the SWOS instructor staff before becoming a PCO.

NEX shoppers win jazz, folk tickets

Navy Exchange shoppers Dick Evans and Bob Brown won the Eurpac and NEX-sponsored JVC Newport Jazz Festival ticket sweepstakes; and Margaret Craig and Kevin Henly won the Apple & Eve Newport Folk Festival sweepstakes in July, Jan Tanury, NEX visual merchandise manager, said.

Both concerts were held in August.

More NEX contests are planned in the future.

year; lives lost for something they believed in, leaving behind friends, family, and shipmates to bear the burden and celebrate their devotion to our country. Freedom isn't free."

Mrs. Taylor said her husband would be proud of how quickly the Pentagon was reconstructed, and how the military got back to the business of defending the country and fighting terrorism.

"I would hope there are safety precautions in place now that the Pentagon is rebuilt so this will never happen again, but you never really are certain," she said.

Rear Adm. Rodney Rempt, President to the NWC, introduced the program and spoke about the resolve of the United States.

"We don't want to see another memorial built. We don't want to attend another ceremony," he said.

"Today we strengthen our resolve. Today we salute these 10 heroes — not for their deaths — but for their lives and all they stood for: life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

He then led the audience in repeating, "Never forget, never forget, never forget."

Guest speaker, Cmdr. Karl Van Deusen, survived the attack and received the Navy-Marine Corps Commendation Medal for his heroism in assisting others from the damaged building. Van Deusen was on the fourth floor of the Pentagon when American Airlines Flight 77 crashed into the lower floors, knocking him across the room.

Van Deusen, a 1997 graduate of the NWC and the prospective commanding officer of the USS Gonzalez, called all the victims "our eternal shipmates."

"They answered the nation's call to serve, and entered their service by reciting an oath of office," he said. "They died in service to their country."

"We are a country at war," he said. "We will win, then we will avenge their loss. Through victory we offer hope for a more peaceful world."

After the unveiling, honorary master's degrees were presented to the families of the students in Washington who were unable to complete their education due to the attack.

Besides the entire 1,000-member student body and staff, invited dignitaries included Gov. Lincoln Almond of Rhode Island, Rep. James Langevin, D-R.I., Rep. Patrick Kennedy, D-R.I., Secretary of State Edward Inman III; and R.I. Chief Justice Frank Williams.

Music was provided by Navy Band Northeast and the Newport Navy Choristers.

U.S. Fleet is ordered to fly First Navy Jack

The First Navy Jack is flying aboard all U.S. Navy ships in lieu of the Union jack during the global war on terrorism, the Secretary of the Navy's office has directed.

To honor those who died during the attack of Sept. 11, 2001, all afloat commands began flying the First Navy Jack at morning colors as of last Wednesday. This display of the First Navy Jack is an authorized exception to Section 1258 of U.S. Regulations 1999.

The First Navy Jack is a flag consisting of a rattlesnake, superimposed across 13 horizontal alternating red and white stripes with the motto, "Don't Tread On Me."

The jack was first employed by Commodore Esek Hopkins in the fall of 1775 as he readied the Continental Navy in the Delaware River. His signal for the whole fleet to engage the enemy was the striped jack and ensign flown at their proper places.

The temporary substitution of this jack represents a historic reminder of the nation's origin, and will to preserve and triumph, the SECNAV said.

Non-deployed ships and craft authorized to fly the First Navy Jack received an initial jack via their local fleet and industrial supply center's logistic support center representative. Deployed ships received their flag via Fleet Post Office, and distribution commenced Aug. 27.

Three additional flags — one holiday and two regular — will be forwarded to each afloat command through commercial vendors at a later date.

Additional quantities will be available through the stock system after December.

Learn what it takes to be great Navy sponsor

The difference between a good transfer and a bad one can sometimes be the first impression a new member and his or her family get when they arrive at the new duty station. That is why the Navy Sponsor Program was established.

The sponsor plays a big part in making the first impression a positive one. A sponsor is a "friend" who is willing to help relocating personnel and their and encouraged to participate. Registration is required and may be made by calling 841-2283.

Relationship Enhancement — The Fleet and Family Support Center is conducting a workshop for individuals and couples who would like to learn some proven ways to improve communication in their personal relationships. The five-session workshop begins Wednesday, Sept. 18, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Call 841-2283 to register.

Reading Your Credit Report — Good credit is an important part of financial planning. Establishing credit, correcting credit problems, and rebuilding good credit are important skills.

Credit reports are used not only by banks, loan companies, and credit card companies, but also by rental property agencies, potential employers, and can be part of a job security clearance process. Learn how to read, understand and correct your credit report.

The Navy Federal Credit Union will conduct this class at the Fleet and Family Support Center on Tuesday, Sept. 24, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Registration is required and may be made by calling 841-2283.

Interviewing Techniques — This informative workshop is being held at the Fleet and Family Support Center on Wednesday, Sept. 25, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Hear information on getting ready for an interview, the interview itself, different types of interviews you may encounter, and post-interview strategies.

The dos and don'ts of effective interview techniques will be discussed. Call the Fleet and Family Support Center to register at 841-2283.

In order to prepare you to be a Navy sponsor, the Fleet and Family Support Center is conducting a Sponsor Training Workshop on Tuesday, Sept. 17, from 9 to 11 a.m. This training provides information pertinent to the performance of sponsorship duties.

It is valuable for individuals who will act as sponsors or department representatives selecting sponsors. Because the military spouse plays such a vital role in the Sponsor Program, all spouses are invited

Children misbehaving? Take this STEP first

The Fleet and Family Support Center is offering classes to share some practical tips and skills on parenting in several important areas.

The program, entitled STEP (Systematic Training for Effective Parenting), provides an easy-to-understand framework that parents may find valuable in making sense of their children's misbehavior.

This understanding helps parents to plan and practice specific responses to misbehavior and may be used to promote responsible, cooperative, and productive behavior in their children.

STEP helps parents stop repetitious and harmful patterns of misbehavior, in a respectful and caring manner. It also helps parents teach their children new ways of participating and relating in the family, encouraging desirable behaviors, and discouraging undesirable behaviors.

The STEP program provides parents with information about "the four goals of misbehavior," "natural" and "logical" consequences, and helps parents use these concepts to strengthen their children's self-esteem and desire to cooperate.

Parents will have the opportunity to sharpen their skills for spotting and reinforcing desirable behaviors, while discouraging negative behaviors and utilize disciplinary methods that are matched to the misbehavior.

The next six-week STEP session begins on Oct. 15, and will run from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Registration is required and may be made by calling the Fleet and Family Support Center at 841-2283.

"Go ask the chief," the expression goes.

Come tomorrow, there will be 22 more at Naval Station Newport and its tenant commands. The traditional pinning ceremony and change to khakis will take place in Weakley Hall Auditorium at the Surface Warfare Officers School Command (SWOSCOLCOM) at noon.

The six-week initiation process serves as a right of passage from the junior to the senior enlisted ranks and to prepare the new chief petty officers to take on positions of greater responsibility and leadership at their respective commands.

Together, the prospective chiefs participated in various military and civic activities. In the classroom they received instruction on topics ranging from Navy core values and traditions to mentoring, camaraderie and leadership.

Teambuilding activities included group Physical training three times a week, singing the National Anthem, and building projects.

In the local community, the selectees participated in service projects, such as cleaning the hulls and decks of sailboats for Shake-A-Leg, Inc. The specially-rigged sailboats are used in sailing lessons for the physically challenged.

The most significant contribution to the community was the landscaping of the Fort Adams military cemetery. Over a period of three weeks, the future chiefs did a complete landscape of the grounds.

The effort included cutting grass, weed disposal, and reshaping overgrown hedges and bushes, raking and disposing of bags of grass and shrubs.

Other activities included a car wash at Burger King in Middletown, pumping gas and washing windows at the Navy Exchange Service Station, bake sales, and cook-outs at the Senior Enlisted Academy.

The Coast Guard does not have a chief initiation process, but realizing the importance and long honored tradition of the process, Chief Damage Controlman Robert Jeffries of SWOS, a Coast Guard chief petty officer, asked to participate in this year's initiation.

But it wasn't all academic and physical activities. The selectees also got together socially for a cruise on Narragansett Bay, the end of summer fireworks, and a golf tournament.

The new chief petty officer selectees are:

“The accident was 20 miles from nowhere in Montana. USFHP brought us home.”

“My wife and I were in an automobile accident in Montana, 20 miles from the nearest town. It took two ambulances and two aircraft to air-evac us to Billings. She was in intensive care for a week. After a few more weeks, when I thought I'd be spending the rest of my life in Billings, Montana, the Uniformed Services Family Health Plan sent a Lear jet out of Denver. It landed at 8:00 a.m. and we were on our way at 9:00 a.m. — the pilot, copilot, ambulance attendant, flight nurse and the two of us. Four hours later we landed in Hyannis, where an ambulance was waiting to take my wife to the rehab hospital in East Sandwich. I thought that was rather extraordinary.”

Knee, hip joint replacement is NACC orthopedic specialty

By LISA DiMARIO, RN

Public Health Educator, Health Promotions Dept.

Do problems with a knee or hip joint keep you from activities you enjoy?

Your knee or hip pain may be caused by an injury, a chronic illness or wear and tear from years of use. Surgery can often help.

A total joint arthroplasty (or total joint replacement) is the surgical reconstruction of a joint where both joint surfaces are replaced with artificial materials, usually metal and high-density plastic. Joint replacement may be recommended for:

- Pain that has failed to respond to conservative treatment (including medication, injections and physical therapy) for six months or more
- Pain that limits or prevents activities that are important to the patient
- Decreased function caused by arthritis
- Inability to sleep through the night due to joint pain.

Lt. Cmdr. (Dr.) James C. McLoughlin, head of orthopedic surgery at NACC Newport, performs both total knee and total hip arthroplasty at Newport Hospital.

McLoughlin and the orthopedic health care team guide their patients through the pre-operative and post-operative periods if surgery is elected and the patient meets all the criteria.

McLoughlin reported to Naval Health Care New England, NACC Newport in August 2000. He attended Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, and performed his residency at Albert Einstein College of Medicine and Montefiore Medical Center Orthopedic residency program.

Authorized patients may see their Primary Care manager if considering joint replacement, and taking one step closer to improving quality of life.

TRICARE corner

Help stop healthcare claims fraud

Fraud and abuse in healthcare claims costs the government millions of dollars each year. It increases the cost of healthcare and causes employers to reduce healthcare benefits in an effort to control rising costs.

Sierra Military Health Services, Inc (SMHS), in response to this growing problem, created a Program Integrity Department dedicated to tracking and stopping health care claims fraud and abuse in the TRICARE Northeast Region.

Although SMHS uses a special computer program to track patterns of claims abuse, beneficiaries themselves are the greatest source of information on possible inappropriate billing practices.

By speaking with doctors and healthcare providers, beneficiaries learn what tests and procedures will be included in their treatment.

NoNames collect 4th straight title

By RAY T. MIGNOGNA

NoNames Player/Coach

For the fourth straight year, the NoNames won the Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport Intramural Softball League championship. They defeated Out Of The Box, 7-6, on Sept. 5 at Carr Point Recreation Area after nearly a week of rainy weather.

The NoNames jumped to a 2-0 lead on a two-run homer by Dwaine Sampson in the first inning. A towering shot that cleared the brush over the left field fence.

Out Of The Box broke through and scored a run when Scott Stanton reached on an error, which was combined with hits by Dave Peveler and an RBI single by Sean Lynch.

Out Of The Box, the Navy Warfare Development Command team, tied the game in the top of the fourth inning on hits by Peveler and Lynch.

The NoNames answered back in the bottom of the fourth with three runs on a single by Mark McCutcheon, a walk to Samson and then Dan Swizler hit a three-run homer that just grazed off the glove of the defending leftfielder, and went over the fence.

After six innings, NoNames still led, 6-3, but Out Of The Box came back to tie it, 6-6, in the top of the seventh.

In the bottom of the seventh, replacement catcher Thurm Hicks hit a single. Hicks was replaced with a pinch runner, Glen Sugawara.

Jim Hayes followed with a single to advance Glen to second and into scoring position.

The MVP for the NoNames was Dan Swizler who had three hits which included a three-run homer. Honorable mention went to Dwaine Samson who hit a two-run home run, and pitcher James "Bear" Hayes. The rest of the team members are Teon Cromwell, Brian Queripal, Ray Boulanger, Bobby Johnson, Matt Stratton, Larry Shute, Warren Vanvelzer, Tim Dowden and Michael Mignogna.

Player/coach Ray Mignogna officially announced he is retired from the team.

NAPS Rams open strong on gridiron

The Naval Academy Prep School (NAPS) Rams' football team is off to a strong start under coach Ens. John Jeffery, winning its first two games this season.

The Rams downed Hudson Valley Community College, 28-19, last Saturday at Prichard Field; and defeated Bridgewater State College, 18-12, on Aug. 31 in Massachusetts.

In the Bridgewater game, NAPS had to overcome several penalties. But Navy never quit resulting in a decisive victory.

The offensive line was into peak form, helping the Rams rush for over 300 yards and three touchdowns. Running back Trey Hines was the main contributor posting 111 yards in five carries.

The NAPS defense held firm, holding Bridgewater to only 230 total yards. Midshipman Candidate David Mahoney helped stop the hosts' offense, making eight tackles, six assists and one sack of the quarterback.

"At times the offense looked very sharp," said offensive coordinator Brian Wajert. "I was proud of the way they all hung together. It showed maturity beyond their years."

"This week we will be working on ball security and hopefully be able to eliminate the turnovers."

"If we do that I believe we will put some more points on the scoreboard."

Then, when they receive their Explanation of Benefits form and billing statement, they can examine them to ensure the doctor billed for the appropriate services. While discrepancies on the Explanation of Benefits can be an indication of potential fraud, many are due to simple billing or claims processing errors and can easily be resolved with a phone call. The beneficiary is encouraged to make an inquiry with the doctor's office or contact our Customer Service Department. Fraud and abuse is everyone's concern. If you think you may be a victim of fraud or for more information on the Program Integrity Department, visit the SMHS website. Also you may write to: Sierra Military Health Services, Inc., Department of Program Integrity, 111 Market Place Suite 410, Baltimore, Md.
